

Leaving The Science Center

When it is time to leave, I may or may not be ready to go. If I don't want to leave, I will try to remember that I can come back again.

I might not see everything I want to this time. That is okay, and I will try to remember that I can come back again.

Some people might be leaving at the same time I am, and some people might getting there. I will try my best to stay close to the people I came with.

I will probably leave the science center the same way I came. Some people drive in a car, take a bus, or ride the train. How will I be leaving?

After leaving the California Science Center, I can keep talking about the things I learned, sharing them with others.
